There are thousands of ways to tell you I love you, But this rose of a bachata is the way I will try, my God! With your arrival you drowned out my pain, With the laughter you brought and like the tides of the moon you erased the footprints in the sand, my God! It's like I am dying, It's like without you I feel like I'm naked, It's like without you I don't even exist, It's like without you there's only grey. Until the red of the rose in January. It's like I am dying, it's like without you I feel like I'm naked. It's like without you I don't even exist, it's like without you life isn't life, But only a memory. Without you I die. When the distance embraces you and the doubt fills you with fear. With the rose of a bachata in the air you will be comforted. Because you gave meaning to the kisses nobody knew, With the guidance of the stars you brought your lips to mine.

Through the House Give
